Garbage Collection Will Be Improved Thru Cooperation

"We are asking that citizens of Belle Glade cooperate with the City in garbage and trash collection thru compliance with the laws which have been on the books since 1948 says City Manager Tavis Huguey.

Ordinances provide that not more than two 30-gallon containers be used by residences, but that sufficient capacity be provided to care for four days' accumulation.

Restaurants and business houses must have capacity to hold three days accumulation, with restaurants and special requirements being charged "a fair and equitable" rate for the frequency and amount of materials hauled away. The rate is fixed by the City Manager, with privilege of appeal to the City Commission.

The containers may not be stored inside of any building, and particularly the main building of the operation; they must be on the property served, not closer than half the depth of the premises to a street.

All containers must be kept tightly covered and easily accessible to employees and City collectors.

"We hope everyone will cooperate in our efforts to keep the City clean," says the City Manager.

Pahokee Hospital Receives Grant Of $475,450.40

A check for $100,000 has been sent to the Everglades Memorial Hospital, from the Florida Development Commission as the second installment payment on the federal hospital construction grant for that project.

Commission Chairman Wendell Jarrod said the federal grant obtained by the Commission for the new 40-bed hospital totaled $475,450.40 of the overall construction cost.

Fresh Water Use Threatens Southeast Florida

Complicity Nurtured By Plenty Favor Gator And Ducks Over Humans

The floods throughout South Florida 17 years ago were spectacular in their devastation of crops, pasture, buildings and property; fortunately the lives of people were protected by experience gained in Disaster Relief and Red Cross training.

Great effort, beginning in the Glades and channeled thru the offices of Senator Holland and Florin two Congressmen brought about federal authority for the establishment of the 18-county C&SF Flood Control District.

There have come to light very recently efforts on the part of National Park Authorities, to divert the waters of Lake Okeechobee, at the will of the Park, in whatever quantities the grunts of the Gators and the cries of the water birds suggest to the resident Agent as desirable.

Also, the development of citrus lands along the St. Lucie Canal and in the neighborhood of LaBelle and the Caloosahatchie have brought requests for permit to use water from these two important waterways — all from Lake Okeechobee.

There has been an unprecedented and unanticipated conversion of raw lands into agriculture, with cane acreage totaling near a quarter of a million.

Most vital of all, the population of the south area covered by Lake Okeechobee, Baitland, is "exploding and "spreading" and each new face calls on Lake Okeechobee as the source of daily water needs.

All of these — human conditions, the need for water, the million folks in the area, the needs of existing agriculture and the potential need of fields and groves being established at present — MUST have the water thru Lake Okeechobee.

The Kimmee River Valley, augmented by Taylor and Fish-eating Creeks are THE major sources of fresh water, into Lake Okeechobee. Baitland, is not sufficient to sustain the needs of the lands immediately surrounding the Lake.

The Park Authorities asked Senator Holland 18 months ago to request an inquiry by the US Engineers as to the need and possible source of water for the National Park; the authorities are covered by a $400,000 authorization was appropriated.

Suddenly, when it became apparent that the Park is seeking unbridled use of Lake Okeechobee, the privilege of fresh water in ALL of South Florida become MORE important than riddance of flood waters were in 47.

The Central and Southern Florida Flood Control District has passed a resolution asking Senator Holland to secure the authority for an engineer's study of "water management" around Lake Okeechobee and in the 18-county area covered by it.

These studies — the Park and the Lake Okeechobee region are sought to be made concurrent.

All agricultural interests, vegetables, sugarcane, citrus, dairymen and Chambers of Commerce within the southern area of the Lake Okeechobee, are being represented at the three hearings to be held by the engineers on the 19th, 20th and 21st, at West Palm Beach on the 21st.

The chips are down — with the flood waters being feared for before personal needs of the population and multi-million dollar agricultural interests of South Florida?

To Head 1965 Business Drive For Heart Fund

Mr. Poston said that "assets growth of $3,711,809.92 during 1964 represented a 17.8% increase over total assets held one year ago, and that assets at the end of 1964 stood at $24,501,576.41." He added that the flow of personal savings appears to have been stimulated "materially" by the reduction in federal income taxes, effective last spring.

The savings and loan institution also reported record annual dividend payments during 1964 totaling $845,753.20, based on a regular dividends rate of 4 1/2%.

New mortgage loans made by the association during 1964 amounted to $3,653,948.54 million.

In the annual report to the association's savers Mr. Poston commented:

"Although business competition has been considerable more severe this past year, we are pleased with the continued progress of our institution and its expanded services to this community."

Mr. Poston foresaw the possibility of "some slight pick-up" in housing activities both in the local community and across the nation in 1965. "A continuation of the present prosperity, another tax cut, ample mortgage credit — these factors suggest some strengthening in demand for single-family homes," said Mr. Poston.

SHE CRIED — and it worked!

She cried on the desks of some 72 US Congressmen and Senators, and the Washington Post let her cry from its front pages in '47.

Authorization for the Central & Southern Florida Flood Control District followed closely the delivery of this "Crying Cow" as the cover for a brochure of pictures of flood conditions and statistical reports of damage following the floods of 1947.

The idea was that of the late Ralph Bland, then General Manager of the Palm Beach County Resources Development Board in West Palm Beach — the assembling and delivery of the brochures to the desks of all members of the House and Senate Public Works Committees was the work of the RDB Committee.

Most GCI Inmates Eager To Learn Chaplain Reports

Lion members listened with interest to the report given by Max Jones, Chaplain at Glades Correctional Institution, on his work with inmates and their response to the educational and vocational programs offered, when he spoke at their luncheon meeting Wednesday.

He explained that all prisoners are screened at the Ralston Institution and the ones sent here to serve sentence are percentage wise, most anxious to learn.

All the inmates are sent out to do farm work, he told the club, but if they want to learn a trade or further their education, they are given an opportunity to do so, regardless of age and previous educational background.

"Most of them want to learn and are given a chance to go to school three days a week if they show the aptitude and desire," he said. Several trades, electrician, carpenter, mechanic, and body repair and plumbing are among the schools made available to those who display ability in the varied training program.

Farming by the Glades Institution is on a big scale and Glades grown beef, pork and canned goods are provided for this unit and supply many of those throughout the state. All prisoners are sent out for farm work when they first enter the institution, and are later categorized according to their abilities.

The Chaplain explained the virtues of the parole system. Prisoners sentenced for 5 years are often paroled in three years and eight months, but must personally report to his parole officer.

Anorodo Cuba, (My Beloved Cuba) Enjoyed Intensely By Americans

"My Beloved Cuba" a Musical Show, sponsored by the Immaculate Conception Parish of Hialeah, Florida, drew a large crowd of Belle Glade citizens Saturday night at Frank Hale's Playhouse in Palm Beach.

Described as a folkloric festival, the elaborate production was played by more than a hundred young Cuban amateur actors and dancers from thirteen to twenty years of age, guided by a group of twenty professionals and technicians.

The program described it as being "a message to the Cuban youth, inside and outside the 'enslaved island,' with an invitation to review the history of their forefathers."

Before Miami was a fishing village Havana was a thriving city with a rich culture with roots in old Spain and nourished in a tropical paradise, and developed into a New World Society with a satisfying blend of social, industrial and commercial society.

The Cuban people of Belle Glade can well be proud of the production which surely touched them deeply.

To those who have known Cuba only from short visits, the experience was rewarding and brought a feeling of appreciation for those who have been forced to flee their homeland and adjust to a new environment where their children can only share vicariously in a culture which formed their lives.

The setting for Part One was provided by a Grandfather portrayed by Paul Diaz, who in a beautiful Spanish accent reviewed a Cuban Scrap Book which his Grandfather, Gomez De Rosa, who in perfect English related a pride and admiration for an inheritance which he can never know as his Grandfather has known.

As his Grandfather introduces the Cuban Sketches the Havana of yesterday comes to life with "Your Eyes of Blue" and "Enchanted Mists" from the music of Ernesto Lecuona, followed by extracts from musical dramas and operettas.

The Danzas, considered the national dance of Cuba until 1920, was done beautifully by a close the more formal review of Havana's rich heritage.

Mrs. Hay is a graduate of Belle Glade High School, class of '61, attended Palm Beach Junior College and graduated from Florida State University, Dec. 19, 1964. He will be curatorial officer at West Palm until September, when he plans to attend law school.

Out of town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. John W. Dick, West Palm Beach; Mrs. S. P. Lee, Jr., Miami; Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Brown, Clewiston; Mr. and Mrs. C. Peet, New Field, New Jersey; Mr. and Mrs. Chris Figueroa, Miami; Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Brown, Grandmother of the bride, was a grandmothers and in attendance were Mr. J. Lauderbach, Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Garrison, Spartanburg, S. C.; Mrs. Boyd Voorhes, Pahrump, Nev.; Mr. J. Brown, St. Bay.

HELEN EILEEN CHERRY

Mrs. Alice S. Cherry, 308 N. W. Ave. D, Belle Glade, announces the engagement of her daughter, Helen Eileen, to W. K. (Butch) Browdy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Buss, 138 S. E. 4th St., North, Belle Glade.

The bride-elect, daughter of the late Joe Cherry, is a graduate of Belle Glade High School and is attending Lucella Ann and BAMBINO.

The music of Afro-Cuban Folklore came to life with a lullaby song, DRUINE NEGRI-TA followed by PACINDO.

Folk dances were introduced with a rendition of Maria La Chacarera followed by a Dance of the Country People, Zapateo and Cuba.

Part one came to a close as a Christmas Carol introduced the Nativity Scene presented to the song of PEACE and LOVE.

As Part Two of the presentation opened, all consciousness of following a history of Cuba had been forgotten and the pleasure of listening to the rich, rhythmic music and watching the graceful and artistic presentation as the players sang SONGS OF THE TROPICS, GUARACHA, CHA-CHA-CHA and BAMBINO.

The Grand Finale came with the "Compassa," as the festive crowd is seen winding through the streets of Havana to a part of the Congo rhythm as a part of the Carnival season as a revival of the ancient "festival day of the slave."

OUR QUEEN WOODED AND WOWED THEM with her warm, enthusiastic response to the role of Queen in the Junior Orange Bowl Parade. "Oh, it was wonderful... wonderful..." was the warm unsophisticated comment of 13 year old June Harris... and her home audience on TV and those on hand to see her performance thought the same... she was "wonderful" too. The natural beauty and smiling unaffected ways of a young lady with an inborn love for people and pride for her home area and surroundings, won the hearts of all... city sophisticates and country folks alike.

Tent Revival Begins Here Tonight

You are invited to come and hear Ralph Morton, who has been preaching since he was seven years old. Evangelist Morton, now 21 has returned for the fourth time for a gospel tent revival. The huge tent is located just East of N. W. 16th St. on Ave. A next to the Pure Oil Station.

Rev. Morton has been preaching since the age of seven, after being healed of call-leg Pertussis disease. After treatment for 14 months and there was no known cure according to medical science, the boy and his parents, attended a gospel tent revival, the prayer of faith was prayed and God healed the youngster. Several months later he had a vision and saw an angel who spoke to him and said the Lord has called you to preach the gospel. Since that time he has been privileged to preach in almost every state.

For the past 12 years Evangelist Morton has been preaching under a gospel tent and has seen many persons come to the Lord to be saved and healed. He with his wife and son are full time in tent work.

The services are being conducted each evening at 7:30, and also 2:30 Sunday afternoon. The public is invited to attend the services.

Evangelist Morton will also be heard on a 5 minute daily broadcast at 8:55 A. M. over WSWN.

What all men are really after is some form, or perhaps only some formula, of peace.

TODAY'S meditation

THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

Read Mark 1:32-42

"You shall receive power when the Holy Spirit has come upon you, and you shall be my witnesses . . . to the remotest parts of the earth."

Acts 1:8 (Weymouth)

In the early days of radio we used batteries which arrived with the chemicals inside, but we had to add water to activate them.

Similarly, the one vital element necessary to fill our hearts with power is the Holy Spirit. Through prayer, His power becomes activated in us. We must be charged with power before we can be a force for good.

During His ministry, Jesus often left the press and throng of humanity and departed to a quiet place, there to commune with His Father and receive new strength and power. If the divine Son of God needed to draw fresh strength from time to time, how much more do we need revitalizing!

As the disciples at Pentecost received power, so also may we when we open our hearts and let the Holy Spirit take control of our lives.

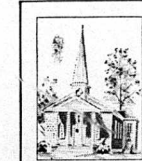

PRAYER: Our Father, grant that we may be willing to open our hearts and let the Holy Spirit fill us with His radiant power. Through the radiance of His power working in us draw others to the Father who art in heaven . . . Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

"Do not pray for tasks equal to your power. Pray for power equal to your tasks!"

Olive O. Lookhart (British Columbia)

At the close of this prayer and others a part of the Lord's Prayer is given. It is hoped the entire Lord's Prayer will be prayed often.

Simply stone and iron! Our photographer called this "Strength."

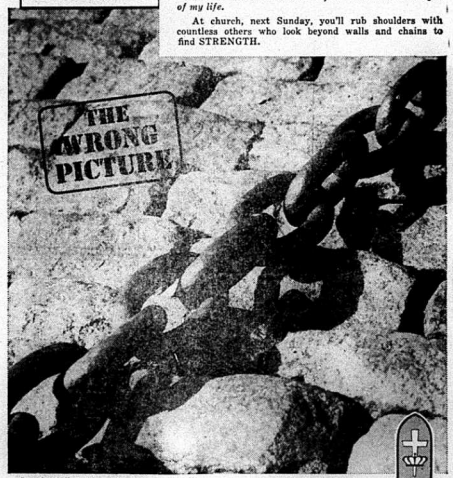

Stone and iron are unyielding. But the greatest strength this world has known is a STRENGTH that yields:

God possesses a resolute Will . . . yet He gives man freedom of will.

God embodies all Power . . . but He hears and answers prayer.

God breathes Holiness . . . yet He forgives men's sin. For God is Love . . . and love is a living Strength that reaches, inspires, guides, protects, promises, fulfills. He was a descendant of the Ages of Stone and of Iron — that earnest seeker who cried, "The Lord is the strength of my life."

At church, next Sunday, you'll rub shoulders with countless others who look beyond walls and chains to find STRENGTH.

TIRE THIEF APPREHENDED HERE TUESDAY

Awaiting trial in Belle Glade City jail is Roosevelt Anderson, Jr., 29 year old negro, who has been arrested for the theft of a number of car tires on two occasions from Frank Anderson's Gulf Service on NW 16th Street, as well as large truck tires from Tolly Island.

The prisoner was apprehended about 4:30 by Police officers McCoy and Brown Tuesday afternoon, while getting the battery charged in his '36 Oldsmobile on SW 8th Street.

The first robbery at Anderson's station occurred the night of December 26, when 15 tires and two batteries were stolen, according to police reports. A gain on January 5, about 4 a. m., 14 more car tires and about $200 worth of tools were taken from the same place.

Nine large 1020 tires were stolen from a fertilizer trailer parked at the twin bridges on Fritz Stein's land on Tolly Island.

The prisoner explained to officers that he had the tires from his first loot hidden south of the City dump, but when he went back on Monday, someone had stolen them from him, so he retraced his course for another sack at the Anderson station.

Eighteen passenger tires and 5 big trailer tires have been recovered, according to the police. Four of the tires were on the culprit's car.

Charges have been filed on the two breaking and entries and preliminary hearing will be held before Judge Tyson Friday morning. The prisoner has been charged with grand larceny by the county on the Island tire theft.

Our Latin Neighbors' Column

To All Our Neighbors:

Our deepest sympathy to Mr. Enrique D'Abrego, who lost his aged father in Cuba on December 20th, 1964. We accompany him in his sorrow.

Now that school has begun, we find ourselves running up and down to catch up with our school-time schedule. Getting the children up on time, their books and lunch bags. And getting up at six o'clock in the morning. But soon we'll be accustomed to it, and find the future rosy again.

NOTICE: (This is addressed to All the Latin Cuban, Mexicans, Puerto Ricans, Cubans, for everybody's good health!)

Sewing machines, knitting, the languages were Spanish and English, taught by English go vernment, danced American dances, such as rumba, jazz, etc., and were taught refinement both from French charm and English manners. They started playing cards, having tea and birthday parties. Now in our time, we were taught by American Nuns in school, taking in the American way of thinking, though not the customs. Our customs were still those traditionally Spanish. But accepting the modern ways; sewing on Sewing-machines, learning to work in the business world as shorthand and typing, bookkeeping, dances both American and Cuban music, which became very popular, such as "son," rumba and cha-cha-cha, etc. And our children, although they have only been here from two to five years in the United States, attend your school, and speak your real quick English, dance the twist and the rock-and-roll. They look like Americans, but without failing to be Cubans.

Here ends my story up for today, and do hope that some of you will please give us your comment, for a better understanding of your ways, which we'll be glad to translate in this our column.

Mrs. Fina Larrondo

The Belle Glade Herald

JAN. 7, 1965

THE HERALD, Belle Glade, Florida 18

A Man's Point Of View: —

At first Cuban refugees felt like foreigners in your country, and we imagine that to you we were strangers too, especially because of our different native language and customs, but as time went on, we have come to understand that in reality we are as American as the descendants of the Mayflower pilgrims. The only difference is the time of arrival. They arrived first, we arrived later.

The United States is a country of refugees, it has been populated by people that at different times have felt the need or the compulsion of leaving their countries, for religious, economic, political or ideological reasons. These people have brought what made the mighty strength of this nation: the spirit of liberty and independence, the wanting to make a better life by hard-working, the desire to be free to worship God, the aspiration to secure their children the opportunity to be educated in a form that gives them freedom of choosing their ideas and decisions. This eagerness has been bringing to this country English, Dutch, Scotch, Irish, Scandinavians, Germans, Italians, Polish, and so many others, and recently Cubans.

We imagine that each one of these people have experienced the same confusion that we are going through: the sadness of leaving behind part of the famlanguage was part of the Cuban education, the tight commercial links between the two countries, the large American tourism that used to go to Cuba, the frequent visits of the Cubans to the United States, the use in Cuba of all the industrial products of the United States, such as cars, appliances, equipment, the constant interchange of techniques and earnings, makes the Cubans feel possibly more than any other Latin American country that we were very near, not only geographically, but in ways of living, to the United States, and of its way of thinking.

Cuban exiles are grateful to you for the opportunity that you have given them to feel the great virtue of your brotherhood toward all mankind, that you bestowed to all people of the world, sometimes apparently fruitless, but that at the long end, is the surest way to fulfill the union of all nations under mutual love and respect.

A Woman's Point Of View: —

This column I wish could become a link of understanding between our two countries. To us you are a surprise, your form of life, and customs, a lot different from ours, your language that we had to learn all over again. In our country you learn it slowly, and over here you hear it with such a velocity that one cannot keep up with the meaning, the words seem to run and run, as its people seem to be in a hurry all the time. Work and housework are different. Fun is different. Religion is practiced more in group form than in the personal form of our land, men and women are different than in our country. All this has us confused, but each one of us in his own way, will be able to control our confusion, and make ourselves respect you, and win your respect.

One thing I can tell you, that we are grateful to the bone, we have never in our life, found such charity and refuge, attitude and achievement, as great as yours, at this moment, of ours of jolt and light spot.

But we have left sadness behind us, as our old people and relatives that we left behind, for the sake of our children whose future we have to look after. We had to make our decision between the paths of Past and Future, between our parents and our offspring, who needed you most? And really we have come here with our hearts broken. Some have been able to bring their parents with them, and have their brothers over in Cuba. Others were not able to bring their parents with them, because they were old, owned their own homes and were afraid of the struggle and hard life that they were not accustomed to, afraid of the language and the cold weather. And, having some of them earned with effort their homes, and small little income, were afraid to lose their security or become a burden in their children's homes.

Now we'll try to bring some more understanding of our Cuban customs. We are of Spanish descent, forming very united families and teaching our children to duty. Our grandmothers read only in French and Spanish, danced the waltz and the mazurka, embroidered, hand-sewed a fine seam, drawing lovely paintings of flowers. During our mother's time, there was handmade lace, sewing in

'My Beloved Cuba' Draws Large Crowd

The audience that attended "Remembrance of Cuba" at the Royal Poinciana Playhouse, in Palm Beach Saturday, January 2nd, was enormous. Especially at the matinee they had for the Cubans. There were so many cars parked, when you got out, probably had a hard time finding yours. In their own words, they said: All Belle Glade was there.

There they had many old songs from Lecuona, O'Farrill, Orefiche, Eliso Grentel, and a lovely song "Cuba" by Mr. Eduardo Montalvo, here from Belle Glade, Sr. Cora Sanchez Armonde de Montalvo.

Among those old songs that brought you so many remembrances, there were: LECUONA'S "Your eyes so Blue," enchanting Miss, Maria la O. Rose the Chinese, Cecilia Valdes, The Virgin of Regla, Hummingbirds, Elevers.

A little before the end, from the ceiling of the theatre they lowered an enormous Cuban flag, everybody stood up and sang hymn, and afterwards there was a cry: "Hail to Free Cuba," "Hail to Christ King" which made people cry.

There were young girls of sixteen and seventeen who had gone with their families, and had seen the show twice; and right there, were looking for some more people of their acquaintance, to go and see the show for a third time.

We remember how on January 6th, it was celebrated always in Cuba, The King's Day of the Three Magi in the Bible, bringing presents, "skate," and bicycles to the children. And the joy of the kids on that day.

The Other Boy Was Hired

There's been a good deal of talk these days about teenage unemployment. Some of it hits the nail on the head — but much of it misses by a country mile or more.
A country editor up in Whitefish, Montana, recently wrote a letter to a teenage boy who had applied to him for a job. We agree with Paul Allingham, editor of the Atchison, Kansas, Globe, that there was more truth than poetry in the letter. Here it is:

Dear Kid:
Today you asked me for a job. From the look of your shoulders as you walked out, I suspect you've been turned down before, and maybe you believe by now that kids who dropped out of high school can't find work.
But I hired a teenager today. You saw him. He was the one with polished shoes and a necktie. He had to drop out of school, too.

What was so special about him? Not experience — neither of you had any. It was his attitude that put him on the payroll instead of you. Attitude, son, A-T-T-I-T-U-D-E.

He wanted the job bad enough to shuck the leather jacket, get a haircut, and look in the phone book to find out what this company makes. He did his best to impress me. That's where he edged you out.

You see, kid, people who hire people aren't "with" a lot of things. We know more about Bing than about Ringer. And we have some stone-age ideas about who owes whom a living. Maybe that's makes us pre-historic, but there's nothing wrong with the checks we sign, and if you want one you'd better turn to our way length.

Ever hear of "empathy"? It's the trick of seeing the other fellow's side of things. I couldn't have cared less that you're behind in your car payments. That's your problem — and supposedly President Johnson's.

What I needed was someone who'd go in to the plant, keep his eyes open, and work for me like he'd work for himself. If you have even the vaguest idea of what I'm trying to say, let it show the next time you ask for a job. You'll be head and shoulders over the rest.

Look, kid! The only time jobs grew on trees was while most of the manpower was wearing G.I.'s and pulling KP. For all the rest of history you've had to get a job like you get a girl. "Case" the situation, wear a clean shirt, and try to appear reasonably willing.

Maybe jobs for young fellows like you aren't too plentiful right now, but lots of us can remember when master craftsmen walked the streets. By comparison you don't know the meaning of the word "scarcity."

You may not believe it, but all around you employers are looking for young men smart enough to go after a job in the old-fashioned way. When they find the right one, they can't wait to unload some of their worries on him.

For both our sakes — get eager, will you?

"IN THE SPIRIT OF FREE ENTERPRISE"

A short time ago, Congressman Fred Schwengel made a speech in the House on the impact and importance of retailing in the free enterprise system. The heart of what he had to say is found in this paragraph: "The major types of retail institutions today include independent stores, department stores, mail-order houses, chain stores, cooperative chains, supermarkets, discount houses, to mention a few. Competition among these institutions for the customer's dollar is fierce and the customer is benefitting as a result. Prices are being held down, wider selections and better quality goods are being made available, store decor has been improved, self-service from more attractive merchandise displays has made shopping faster and easier. Parking facilities are more readily accessible and more convenient shopping hours enable the family to shop together. All of this has been done in the spirit of free enterprise."

That is quite a tribute, and it is eminently deserved. More, it is worthy of wide public notice — for, as Mr. Schwengel also said, "The retailers service to modern society is one that is too often taken for granted." Our grandfathers, it is safe to say, would look on today's retail industry with wide eyes and consider it something of a miracle.

Every consumer should thank retailing for a huge job splendidly done.

FACULTY PRESCRIPTION

"Your luck goes bad for a while and then suddenly it turns around and gets worse."
That lament of (unknown origin) over the vicissitudes of Dame Fortune could very well have been written for the American farmer.

Best over the years by a host of problems — many of them government-manufactured — the farmer is now faced with a new threat to his security in the proposals made by the National Agricultural Advisory Commission, appointed by the Administration to find solutions for the nation's agricultural difficulties.
Despite the earnest pleas by responsible agricultural groups such as the American Farm Bureau Federation for less, rather than more, bureaucratic regulation, the NAAC has produced a plan to remove 40 million acres of productive farm land from cultivation, put quantity limits on what farmers can sell and bring new crops under the federal control system.

While the plan of the farm acreage would be made in face of the plight of hungry peoples throughout the world and the ever-dising desperate need for sustenance as the population explosion continues to exert greater demands on the food supply.

Obviously, the Commission believes that the price of the commodity can be driven up if it becomes scarce. But, in alligning itself with this theory, the Commission has completely ignored the example set by American industry which, over the years has demonstrated that products can be plentiful and prices still kept within the reach of consumers.

What of the farmers and agricultural workers who would lose their livelihoods in the 40-million acre shut down? The Commission concedes that some may require special services, such as relief. Others are expected to retire, obliquely and still others could, the report pointed out, convert their farmsteads into places of amusement.

In the light of this glum prospect for the farmers deprived of their land, and in the best interests of all concerned, the NAAC plan should be rejected.

UNCLE DAN from DOOLIE says:

Dear Mister Editor:
This was the time of year when the fellers at the country store used make their New Year's resolutions but Ed Doolie hung out the red flag on this project Saturday night.

Ed reported, on account of it being a New Year, he figured he'd turn over a new leaf and get to doing a little better around the house. He said he came in from the barn early for supper, washed up, combed his hair, went in the kitchen, set the table and helped his old lady get the vittles on the table. When supper was over he insisted on washing the dishes by himself.

Ed said when he came out in the front room his old lady was setting there crying. He asked her what the trouble was and she said: "Today everything has went wrong. I hung out the clothes and it started raining. One of the pigs got out and tore up my flower bed. I dropped that glass pitcher Mama give us for Christmas. And to top it all off, you to me in from work so drunk you don't know what you're doing."

Ed, that ain't never drunk nothing stronger than coffee in his life, allowed as how a feller can't win, and he was voting again my motion at the meeting and might not be with us come for making New Year's resolutions.

Clem Webster was agreed with Ed, announced 1965 had ought to be the year when the wives made the resolutions. Furthermore, Clem said he would cite a good example.

Take old Rufe Zander, for instance said Clem. Rufe's old lady was a spindly, hard-working, patient woman, while Rufe was a hard-drinking, loud-mouthed devil. But Rufe's old lady loved him and she tried to make his days as comfortable and as happy as she could.
One night, reported Clem, when Rufe came home with a pal of his, the two of them drunk as cooties and it was 2 in the morning and them stumbling all over the house in the cold, Rufe's old lady got up from her bed, dressed and fixed 'em a good hot meal.
As the good woman put the food on the table, Rufe's pal asked her why she was so good to Rufe. "Well," she allowed, "I know where Rufe is headed for when he dies. All his enjoyment will have to come in this world, and I aim to see that he gets as much of it as possible."

Clem said Rufe's old lady had the proper forecast on this business, and he was advising all wives with drinking husbands to make a New Year's resolution to be good to 'em on account of they ain't long for it two worlds away from here.

Clem Webster was agreed with Ed, announced 1965 had ought to be the year when the

The Orient Can Be Most Interesting

Two Belle Glade ladies, Ruth Wedgworth and Edith Freedlund were privileged to make a tour of the Orient this summer, and their reports of places visited, things seen and their observations, we believe, are very interesting reading. We offer this report as of interest to teenagers in school, to grown-ups for the observations on the life of the Orientals and descriptive report.

THAILAND (Formerly Siam)

Edith Freedlund

The highlight of our trip was the Thai Classical Dance performed nine to eleven in an upper auditorium in our hotel. These graceful girls are highly trained and every gesture has a meaning. First we were shown costumes dating back many years, then how to greet people — salutations to men, women, and the Emperor. There is a color for every day of the week — Sunday is red, Monday is yellow, Tuesday is pink, Wednesday is green and so on. Some of the girls were dressed as men, and dancing was done in pairs. The costumes were of beautiful silk, heavily embroidered. Fingernails were painted gold and were at least two inches long. These were curved pieces of metal fitted on the fingers. The effect was exotic. The slow graceful dancing to music is especially appreciated because the girls are so lovely to look at. We were only about twelve feet from them as we sat on the front row. One little girl of eight came out and danced alone — such rhythm. The tall spiral headdresses are so different than anything seen any other place in the world. Anyone remembering the movie, "Anna and the King of Siam," will have a mental picture of this. The Thai people are slightly darker than the Japanese, who seemed whiter than most of my friends.

The money in Thailand is called a Baht, pronounced Bot, and twenty one Baht equal one dollar. While the people in this country have the lowest annual income per capita of all the oriental countries, they are clean, happy and healthy. The Chase Manhattan Bank opened a branch bank here in January and pays 4 1/2% on checking account balances. 7 1/2% interest is paid by the bank for money left one year or more. Government bonds pay 8 percent and are tax free. An individual would have to pay as high as 12% to 15%. The recollection one has of Bangkok is the many monks roaming the streets in saffron robes which almost match the faded orange tile on all the temples. It is a place one would enjoy visiting again to enjoy the peaceful atmosphere, the smiling people and the courteous and friendly service.

Quote from Time Magazine of Dec. 11th on Buddhism: Religion and Politics. Thailand: Probably nowhere in Asia is Buddhism a gentler, more pervasive force in pro-Western Thailand. Everywhere monks are valued not only as spiritual leaders, but as astrologers and diviners. Some have even become management consultants, called on by businessmen before major investment decisions. The Thais tie their annual income in contributions to temple buildings and Buddhist ceremonies. Not long ago, Bangkok carried out a little-publicized round up of leftist-oriented monks to prevent any Communist infiltration of the clergy.

This is a copy of a letter received by one of the Tour members, who sent a necktie to the Japanese who worked in a Shop in MIYAKO HOTEL, Kyoto, Japan.

Dear Madam:
First of all, please let me express my thousand heartfelt thanks for unexpected gift from you which is indeed so beautiful and so lovely that I wear my years well and look so young.
